THE ARMY BUSINESS CENTER FOR ACQUISITION SYSTEMS

The Army Business Center for Acquisition Systems

The Army Business Center for Acquisition Systems (ABCAS) provides support for the Standard Procurement System (SPS) to over 200 Army contracting offices worldwide. Applications supported by ABCAS include:

Standard Procurement System (SPS). Standard Procurement System (SPS). SPS is a suite of software products in use by contracting professionals throughout much of DoD. The primary application in the SPS product suite is Procurement Desktop - Defense, which is currently deployed to over 20,000 users at approximately 800 sites around the world.

Army Contracting Business Intelligence System (ACBIS). ACBIS is a web-based business intelligence (BI) system that provides the capability to analyze data using standard reports or ad hoc queries. The BI application, BusinessObjects ®, provides authorized users with an analytical tool that gives them access to near real time operational contract data. This data is depicted as business information and cross indexed to other data sources that provides insight into business operations. ACBIS interfaces with contract writing software,
